Eventual Consistency

Performance and availability of data in case of network partitioning are enabled by ensuring data consistency eventually and not at all times.

How can data be distributed among replicas with focus on increased availability and performance, while being resilient towards connectivity problems?

http://www.cloudcomputingpatterns.org