Stateful Component

Multiple instances of a scaled-out application component synchronize their internal state to provide a unified behavior.

How can applications components that are scaled-out maintain a synchronized internal state?