Two-Tier Cloud Application

Presentation and business logic is bundled to one stateless tier that is easy to scale. This tier is separated from the data tier that is harder to scale.

How can application functionality be separated from data handling to scale them independently?